25X1 1. Many Chinese merchants in Tientsin would like to trade with Japan, but at present it has to be done through Chinese officials who take such a large cut that profits for the merchants are negligible. Profits have to be unusually large to compensate for the risk involved and to cover the monthly interest charges of 30-40%. Also, the fact that Japanese exports are valued in U. S. dollars makes their resale price prohibitive in Chinese markets at the present time.
